STUBBLEBUSTER BEST FOR BEEF

BILL Webb got into high end Wagyu beef about 10 years ago. Located around the Rocky River area near Tenterfield, his breeding herd call the property "Tyrone" home.

Bill had grazed traditional beef cattle for many years on his previous property where the water supply was totally controlled.

This meant he could dispense strict amounts of protein in the form of urea to his cattle when they made their visits to the water troughs. Economically that made great sense.

Bill knows the importance of dosing animals with protein and trace minerals to ensure they make the most of dry feed but the move out to "Tyrone" a decade ago presented him with a new problem.

The water there is all surface water and the lack of troughs meant Bill had to find a new way to give his herd urea in economically-manageable quantities.

The solution was presented to him by Todd Wilshire of Tenterfield Produce Co – in the form of a 4 Season block known as STUBBLEBUSTER which contains 10% urea bypass protein and 10% crushed lupins.

Sold on Stubblebuster: Bill Webb of "Tyrone" and James Dickson, 4 Season Company National Sales Manager.

"What I like about it is that it's a nice hard block", says Bill.

"That means the cattle's consumption rates are more even and that makes it a very economical way of delivering urea and all the other things in the block to my herd. I use the blocks all year round."

James Dickson, 4 Season Company National Sales Manager says "STUBBLEBUSTER is balanced with protein combinations of urea, bypass meal and crushed lupins, as well as essential minerals and trace elements.

Your sheep and cattle will clean up stubble and dry feed in paddocks simply by feeding out this product.

The nutritional benefits associated with feeding high quality proteins and minerals allows stock to consume and digest more of these dry forage sources than would otherwise happen.

And the cost savings of not having to distribute grain and other feeds are obvious."

Bill Webb is extremely satisfied with results that 4 Season has delivered for his Wagyu beef herd at "Tyrone" – consistent weight growth in all conditions and seasons.

Bill says, "I don't understand why more people don't use them".
